Aircraft Electric Motors Achieves Nadcap® Accreditation for Chemical Processing

Nadcap® congratulates Aircraft Electric Motors on successfully passing our recent site audit and continuing Nadcap® accreditation for Chemical Processing.

“Nadcap accreditation demonstrates AEM’s longstanding pledge to ensure quality is at the heart of everything we do,” said Josh Clot, President & CEO of Aircraft Electric Motors, Inc.

Nadcap® accreditation for Chemical Processing has been achieved by Aircraft Electric Motors as a result of effort they have invested in meeting stringent industry and customer requirements.

“I would like to congratulate Aircraft Electric Motors for their recent activity that led them to achieving Nadcap® Chemical Processing accreditation. Their compliance to stringent industry and customer requirements has been acknowledged and is now visible to the entire industry.” said David Schutt, President and Chief Executive Officer at the Performance Review Institute®.
